

---

BEST of the BLOG CONTRIBUTORS

---

DAVID TRIMMER is a second-year MPA student focusing on social policy. In 2021, he graduated from the Rochester Institute of Technology with a bachelor's degree in political science. He has served as a guest contributor to Brief Policy Perspectives and as pro-bono consultant. In his most recent project, he and other Trachtenberg students evaluated community indicator projects across North America and presented their findings at the Community Indicator Consortium. Outside of Trachtenberg, he is a part-time tennis instructor for JST and the Fairfax County Park Authority.

NATHAN VARNELL is a first-year first-year MPA student focusing on urban policy and public finance. He currently interns in the office of U.S. Representative Carolyn Bourdeaux. Before coming to Trachtenberg, Nathan graduated cum laude from Texas A&M University with a BS in political science and journalism, where he served as an editor at The Battalion newspaper and worked with local non-profits serving essential workers in the campus community. In his spare time, he is a member of the George Washington Boxing Club, listens to podcasts and attends St. John's at Lafayette Square.

JULIA VANELLA is a third-year MPP candidate concentrating in social and health policy. She is originally from Southern California and graduated from Mount Saint Mary's University in Los Angeles in 2018 with a bachelor's degree in history and a minor in political science. Julia is currently working at the EPA in the Office of the Chief Financial Officer in the Office of Budget with the Resource Planning and Regional Operations staff. When she's not working or studying, Julia loves to explore the city, scope out new restaurants and events and hang out with friends.

PATRICK CARR is a first-year MPP student focusing on policy analysis. He currently works as an economist for the Bureau of Labor Statistics' International Price Program. Before coming to Trachtenberg, he worked as an intern at the Committee for a Responsible Federal Budget and in the U.S. House of Representatives. He graduated from the University of North Carolina at Charlotte in 2015. In his spare time, he enjoys reading, volunteering, running, and playing music with fellow musicians.